Unemployment In Shanghai

DIFFICULTIES OF THE FOREIGN POPULATION.

FROM A WOMAN'S POINT OF VIEW.

The people of Shanghai, intelligently realizing that the economic condition of the rest of the world must react on immigration as well as the general trend of business, are trying to find some method of coping with the problems of unemployment before they become overwhelming. The first difficulties of this type arose with the influx of White Russians who came here seeking safety and a means of livelihood. This, of course, affected the scale of wages and now there is added danger of a further reduction as people from other countries are beginning to arrive because of the impossibility of finding work at home.

So far, the men form the largest group of the unemployed among those with training and experience. Many of these have utilized the last of a shrinking capital for the journey in the hope of making a new start in China, still less disturbed by depression than almost any other country. This additional weight on business cannot be absorbed, even here, and the various consulates, chambers of commerce, and other organizations are attempting to discourage such pioneering for jobs through their home offices.

UNEMPLOYED WOMEN.

But the man can manage in some way. Obviously, the serious point to be considered is, unemployment among women. Although the figures are minute in comparison to those of other cities, there has been an unprecedented number looking for work in the last few months. Most of these cases, however, in regard to the British and Americans, are not desperate as they concern women who have some employment, but with such small salaries they find mere existence difficult.

Various organizations interested in this subject state that no remarkable increase has been brought to their attention recently. As one woman said, "The problem of the Russian is always with us, but I know of no American, who was willing and really wanted work, who was unable to obtain it. Recently, I have heard of some British women who have lost their positions; however, as things stand, I do not consider that we have a serious situation to meet in that line."

Her statement has been borne out by other sources of information. Investigation of the files of the employment bureaux show the registration of few British or American women, although there are more of the former, but an increase in the number of Russians.

SPECULATIVE ARRIVALS.

Up to date, there have not been many English or American women who have come here to work without something definite in view, merely because of lack of opportunity at home. There are a few, though, and it is feared that this class of immigration may grow.

One woman, who recently came to Shanghai in search of a position, tells the following story: "I arrived with just enough money to last a few weeks, at the most, and a great hope. The first thing I did, of course, was to look through the newspapers. That was not too cheerful as I could not find more than one or two advertisements for office help. The next step was registration at my consulate, the Chamber of Commerce and the Y.W.C.A. Everyone expressed disapproval of my coming out with nothing more than a sleep trust in luck. As one man said, 'The best thing you can do, young woman, is go home where you have friends.' That was an impossibility as steamship companies charge for transportation, and I refused to be discouraged. That very first day I uncovered three jobs. Not good ones, it is true, but they gave me the confidence, feeling that there was no need to starve. The moneyless cannot be too particular. However, I decided to try for something better while my small capital lasted.

"In the process of job-hunting, I discovered there were not many women among the unemployed, but some of them made so little they could hardly manage to live. That worried me, although most of them were doing some kind of sales or clerical work and lacked real training. Within a short time I secured a temporary position, made possible through the fact that I had arrived in vacation season. Since then I have learned that there is always a place for the competent stenographer and that it was not luck entirely. But I hate to think of what might have happened if I had been one of the army of 'general office workers' without anything definite to offer. Anyone of that type who comes here is going to find herself in the same position—or lack of one—that she would at home and is a fool to try it."

ANOTHER ASPECT.

There is another side of the question that is brought out by the case of an older woman who has lived in Shanghai for some years. She lost her place as a clerk in a local firm when they decided to reduce expenses and has been without work ever since. She has applied to all the agencies and even canvassed the individual companies, but, where there is a vacancy, a younger person is chosen. While that is pathetic, such a condition is not new.

Then there are many instances of other women who have lost their positions and been forced into taking anything they could get. It is possible to live on very little in Shanghai, but some of the salaries are so infinitesimal that the standard of living must be reduced to a degree affecting the health. And the building of a reserve fund to cover necessities in case of illness is impossible.

The city has been most generous in response to charity cases, but there is no provision, at present, for the semi-self-supporting woman who will not apply to any of the existing groups for help as long as she can eke out any kind of an existence. The situation is not yet desperate, but far-seeing people believe that it may have to be met in the not too far distant future. Some sort of a Girls' Residential Club, such as can be found in other large cities, where the working woman with a small salary may live in clean and decent surroundings, is one solution.

One business man said that the effects of the depression in the rest of the world were only beginning to be felt here as it always took about two years for Shanghai to reflect general conditions to any great extent. He agreed with others in the belief that there was no very decided unemployment problem among women just now, but that it was apt to arise and must be considered.

BRITISH FIRMS' ENTERPRISE.

MORE DETAILS OF THE NEW ENGINEERING GROUP.

MANAGING DIRECTOR IN SHANGHAI.

Reference was recently made in the N.C. Daily News to the formation of a new company by a group of some of the most prominent British engineering firms to be called Dorman Long and Associates (China) Ltd. Mr. Frank R. Freeman, who has been appointed Managing Director, has now arrived in Shanghai and yesterday gave further information regarding the objects of the company.

Mr. Freeman emphasises that the new Company exists solely for development and negotiation with regard to comprehensive engineering schemes in China on behalf of members of the group jointly, and will not itself, carry on business, enter into contracts, provide finance, or act as agent for individual firms in the group.

The projects which the new Company will study are those comprehensive schemes which, involving many kinds of engineering product, demand collaboration between several firms, such as the construction of railways, power schemes, harbours and other public work services.

Experience in other parts of the world in carrying out such contracts has shown that intimate association and a close understanding from the very inception of any project between the firms concerned in it, together with a first hand knowledge of local conditions and the means of providing single responsibility for the carrying out of the work, are essentials of success.

Business in China.

It will be clear that with regard to business of this character in China as compared with countries where the nature of business is more familiar and political arrangements more stable, it is doubly important to secure these conditions. It has been this consideration which has brought the new company into being.

Its objects are to study conditions in China so as to provide information at first hand to its members; to assist in the development of important engineering schemes and carry out preliminary negotiations regarding them and to provide a liaison between the constituent firms in regard to such projects as may be suitable for them to carry out jointly.

The proposal to form such a combination may perhaps be regarded as a bold one, having in mind the present political conditions obtaining in China. It has, however, been adopted after careful discussion with almost every authority interested in the relations between China and the British engineering industry. The criticism has further been made that the introduction of this venture is premature. Those, however, who have had considerable experience in the negotiation leading up to important comprehensive contracts, will realise that it is but too late. Especially in China, it is necessary before contemplating the carrying out of important works of construction in a country where conditions are so different from those in Europe or in the British colonies, to have available first hand, as exhaustive a body of information as possible.

Construction of most large schemes of public works must clearly wait upon the existence of more stable political conditions and probably finance from abroad. Dependence as to the possibility of settled government or of foreign finance, on any large scale in the immediate future is understandable in the minds of those who have passed through the vicissitudes of China's recent history, but nothing is more certain than, that at some date, whether it be deferred two years or ten, a means of securing China's emergence as a great industrial nation will be found.

China's Urgent Need.

When such an industrial regeneration takes place, one of China's most urgent needs, will be an effective trunk railway system including the rehabilitation of her existing railways; the provision of electric power and of all the other great public services upon which modern industry depends.

It is confidently believed that the existence of the new company can do much to promote interest abroad in such undertakings, and to provide information which will hasten their successful development, and bring home to the British engineering industry and to British financial quarters, a more complete understanding of China's requirements in these directions.

As the Company exists purely for investigation and development, its operations will not interfere with the relations existing between each constituent firm and its representation in China, but will only act as liaison in connection with joint negotiations on comprehensive schemes where collaboration between several firms in the group is involved.

It is not the customary policy of British engineering firms to engage in finance and it is, therefore, not the intention of the members of the group to provide finance from their own resources or to act as concessionaries. This is properly the business of financial houses, according to Mr. Freeman, but the company has reason to believe that its existence will provide an effective channel for the provision of funds for any reputable scheme since great confidence would be placed in any recommendation coming from a group of firms of such standing as those comprised in this company, and in the knowledge of their willingness and ability to carry through any kind of engineering project of any magnitude with single responsibility.

Members of Group.

The firms comprising the group are at present:—Messrs. Dorman, Long and Co., the Metropolitan Vickers Electric Export Co. Ltd. Messrs. Babcock and Wilcox Ltd. Callender's Cable and Construction Co. Ltd. Messrs. John I. Thornycroft and Co. Ltd. Messrs. Beyer.

CAPT. HOPE'S VICTORY DASH.

PRINCE'S PLANE SECOND IN GREAT AIR RACE.

The two-days thrilling air race from point to point around Britain for the King's Cup ended in a victory for Captain W. L. Hope.

The Prince of Wales's plane, piloted by Flight-Lieutenant Fielden, was second, after a thrilling duel, with Mr. W. L. Runciman (son of the President of the Board of Trade) third.

Captain Hope is the brilliant pilot who has made many important flights for the Sunday Pictorial.

This is the third time he has won the race, and he is the first pilot to perform this feat. His previous successes were in 1927 and 1928.

Captain Hope finished at 4.27 p.m., zoomed down over the finishing line and then shot up into the clouds as if in triumph.

His speed for yesterday's section of the race and his average for the whole course of 1,250 miles was 124.5 m.p.h.

Captain Hope was a happy man after the race, as he was greeted by his wife. He said that his machine had gone like a bird all the time.

"It was a picnic," he added, "and I enjoyed every moment of it. Of course, I should have liked the Prince to have won, but my little machine just could not let him."

Pilot's Error.

There was a thrill when the Prince of Wales's plane arrived, the pilot failing to cross the finishing line.

Flight-Lieutenant Fielden circled and landed on the far side of the aerodrome.

A fast motor-car was immediately sent out to warn him. He took off again and completed the course according to the rules.

He lost three and a half minutes over his landing mistake, and this average speed for the day to 103.3 m.p.h. and for the whole course to 155.75 m.p.h.

Mr. Runciman won a trophy for the fastest light aeroplane club entrant.

Fourth man home was Mr. A. C. S. Irwin, and the fifth Captain H. S. Broad, piloting Lord Wakefield's plane.

The two women competitors were out of the picture. Miss Winifred Spooner was fifteenth, and Miss Winifred Brown twenty-first.

Captain H. A. Brown, in the scratch machine, won the prize for the fastest speed with 176 m.p.h., beating the record for the race. He arrived 29th.

Four hundred and ninety-five miles had to be covered in the last section—Brooklands-Bristol-Northampton—Brooklands—Shoreham-Portsmouth-Bristol-Brooklands.

While Lord Gorell was distributing the prizes an aeroplane was noticed taxiing rapidly in circles, with no one in the cockpit. Air-men chased and caught it, hanging on to the wings, while one clambered up and switched off the engine.

CANADIAN-BRITISH STEEL DISCUSSIONS.

Ottawa, July 10.—The Canadian and British steel experts who have been conferring at Montreal about the Canadian market for British iron and steel products have drafted a preliminary statement of their views for use at the Ottawa Conference. Sir William Larke, for the British representatives, and Mr. Ross McMaster for the Canadian representatives, state that the greatest possible desire has been shown for co-operation.

The British delegation has taken the initiative in making proposals, and at its suggestion the discussions have been simplified by dividing iron and steel imports into three classes, those in which Canadian plants are capable of supplying the whole of the domestic demand, those which are manufactured in Canada, but in insufficient quantities for the local market, and those which Canada does not manufacture at all. Attention is being concentrated on the last two classes, where it is held that a diversion of trade to Great Britain on a considerable scale is possible without impairing the fortunes of any Canadian industry.

There have also been conferences between Canadian and British leather manufacturers, and it is understood that a tentative agreement on tariff policies of a satisfactory nature has been reached.

Peacock and Co. Ltd. Messrs. Edgar Allen and Co. Ltd. and the Tilbury Dredging Co. Ltd. The Managing Director of the Company will be Mr. Frank R. Freeman, M. Inst. C. E. who will shortly establish a permanent office in Shanghai, but before doing so, he proposes to make a preliminary tour of investigation through the country. In the meantime, his temporary address will be in the offices of Messrs. Callender's Cable and Construction Co. Ltd., 40 Ningpo Road.

HINDU ELOPES WITH MUSLIM.

DRAMATIC TURN TO A SENSATIONAL CASE.

An unexpected development has given a dramatic twist to the sensational case arising from the elopement of Hasumati, a Hindu married girl, with her Muslim lover, Daud Narsi, states a report from Broach.

The romance has landed them in gaol, and she is now trying a rapprochement with her enraged husband. And all this under the shadow of the prison-bars which will shortly claim her if her appeal to the Bombay High Court falls through.

The incidents of this case are as dramatic as one expects to read in fiction and have created a great sensation among the Hindu community of Gujarat, more particularly as the couple comes of respectable families. The girl's father Mr. Chabildas Master is a prominent lawyer in Broach, while her husband Ishavari Munim is the son of a former sub-Judge in Kaira District.

The girl Hasumati had been living with her husband in Bombay for some years past. She developed a love affair with a Moslem (Khoja) youth, Daud Narsi, and eloped with him some time back, taking away her two minor sons.

Brothers' Complicity.

A sordid feature of this sordid drama is that on account of some dispute over their family property, the husband's two brothers turned against him and helped the lovers in their runaway plan. One of the brothers, Dr. Ramnik Munim, is a medical practitioner with a University degree (M.B., B.S.), while the other, Harshad Munim, is a student reading for a diploma in commerce. After their dramatic disappearance from Bombay, the lovers went to Broach, her father's town, where the girl was converted to Islam and remained in hiding. On the husband's complaint, the police traced her to a lonely building where she was kept concealed.

Hasumati pleaded that she left her husband on account of his adulterous conduct.

Heavy Sentences.

In respect of kidnapping the children, Hasumati was sentenced to six months' rigorous imprisonment while Daud Narsi, her Muslim lover, and the husband's two brothers (Harshad and Dr. Ramnik) got nine months' rigorous imprisonment and Rs. 500 fine, or in default, six months' more. All the accused, (except the girl) were also prosecuted for enticing away a married woman with intent that she may have illicit association with another man. On this charge, Daud Narsi, the Muslim lover was sentenced to 18 months, Harshad to 15 months and Dr. Ramnik to 18 months, all terms of rigorous imprisonment.

Hasumati's Vow.

At the closing stage of the trial, Hasumati openly recanted. In her statement to the court she said:

"I was disgusted with my husband's conduct. I embraced Islam, because Daud (the first accused) advised me that by so doing I could have my marriage nullified. I have no faith in Islam, and never had. My father does not take me back for fear of society. Until my father and my husband take me back, I shall live alone, and lead a pure and simple life. By my two children I swear that I will do so till the end of my life."

All the accused intend to file an appeal in the Bombay High Court. Pending her appeal, Hasumati has been released on bail. The other three have been refused bail and have been taken to Ahmedabad to serve their term in the Sabarmati jail.

True to her vow, Hasumati took steps to fulfil the solemn promise she had given to the court.

Immediately the case was over, she was reconverted to Hinduism before a large gathering at her father's house in Broach.

The "shuddhi" (purification ceremony) was performed by Pandit Mayashankar of the Broach Arya Samaj.

The Pandit, in giving his blessings to Hasumati, said that the lack of religious education and undesirable social customs were responsible for such incidents which were, unfortunately, of frequent occurrence.

REAR-ADMIRAL BINGHAM.

RETIREMENT OF BATTLE OF JUTLAND HERO.

Rear-Admiral the Hon. E. B. S. Bingham, V.C., O.B.E., who has retired on promotion to flag rank, is chiefly known to the public for his gallantry in command of the Nestor at Jutland. In that ship he led a division (which attack the German battle cruisers and fired torpedoes at between 5,000 and 6,000 yards. The Nestor was disabled and sank later, Commander Bingham being among the survivors who were picked up and taken to Germany as prisoners of war. During his captivity he put together some notes of his service—he had previously served in H.M.S. Invincible at the Falklands—which were published in 1919 as a small book entitled "Falklands, Jutland and the Bight." Since the War Rear-Admiral Bingham's commands have included the Admiralty yacht Enchantress, the Fourth Destroyer Flotilla, reserve ships at the Nile and Devonport, and the battleship Resolution in the Mediterranean. He was also Chief of Staff in the Nile Command in 1927-29. He now retires at the age of 61.

WEEK-END LAWN BOWLS RESULTS.

POLICE SURPRISE LAST YEAR'S CHAMPIONSHIPS: HOLLAND'S RINK SCORE BIG WIN.

CRAIGENGOWER CRICKET CLUB BRING OFF ANOTHER DOUBLE.

Following their win over Kowloon Docks two Saturdays ago, the Police Recreation Club created another surprise over the week-end when they beat last year's champions, Kowloon Cricket Club by 13 shots. For their win the Police had mainly to thank Holland's rink who beat Lya's "quartette" by the margin of 24 shots.

Craigengower Cricket Club added to their laurels by scoring a "double" over Club de Recreio. They are now five points ahead of their nearest rivals in the senior division while in the junior section they have 20 points for 11 matches played. Civil Service comes next with 14 points for the same number of matches.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

edited by UNCLE JACK.

"MY A.B.C."

DEAR KIDDIES,—
The other day when I heard one of my young friends, repeating his Alphabet, I was rather struck by the simplicity of it all. I asked the little chap afterwards, what he called his "lingo," and he answered: "My A.B.C."
How many of you know that Alphabet really means A.B.; it is so called from the first two letters of the Greek alphabet—Alpha, Beta. The Phoenicians are credited with the adoption of a recognized collection of letters from which the words of a language are made up. The Chinese have no alphabet, but signs which convey ideas.

Cheerio,
UNCLE JACK.

IN LIGHTER VEIN.

Started All Right.

A company of soldiers was having target practice, and Private Murphy, who had repeatedly missed, was admonished by his officer. "You can do better than that, Murphy. Now, try it again, and don't flinch!"
Murphy fired, but, as usual, missed.
"What was the matter with that last shot?" Murphy looked up and answered: "I dunno, sir. It was all right when it left here."

We Didn't Get It at First, Either.
"Now, these two boys are sisters," said the housewife to the census taker.
"You mean brothers, don't you?" the census man asked.
"No, the girls out in the yard are brother's, but the boys are sisters."
"Boys sisters and girls bro—"
"Now, I mean just what I say. These two boys belong to my sister, who lives down the street, and the girls are my brother's daughters who are visiting me."

HIDDEN NAMES

Six boys' or girls' names are hidden in the following six sentences:—
1.—A philosopher is described as a rational thinker.
2.—He hated the thought of unlimited war, death or pain.
3.—I gave them matches and cigarettes.
4.—He can play a banjo and a ukelele.
5.—Always tell the truth and you'll be honoured among men.
6.—The negro berthed at the far end of the ship.

MOTHER'S WAY.

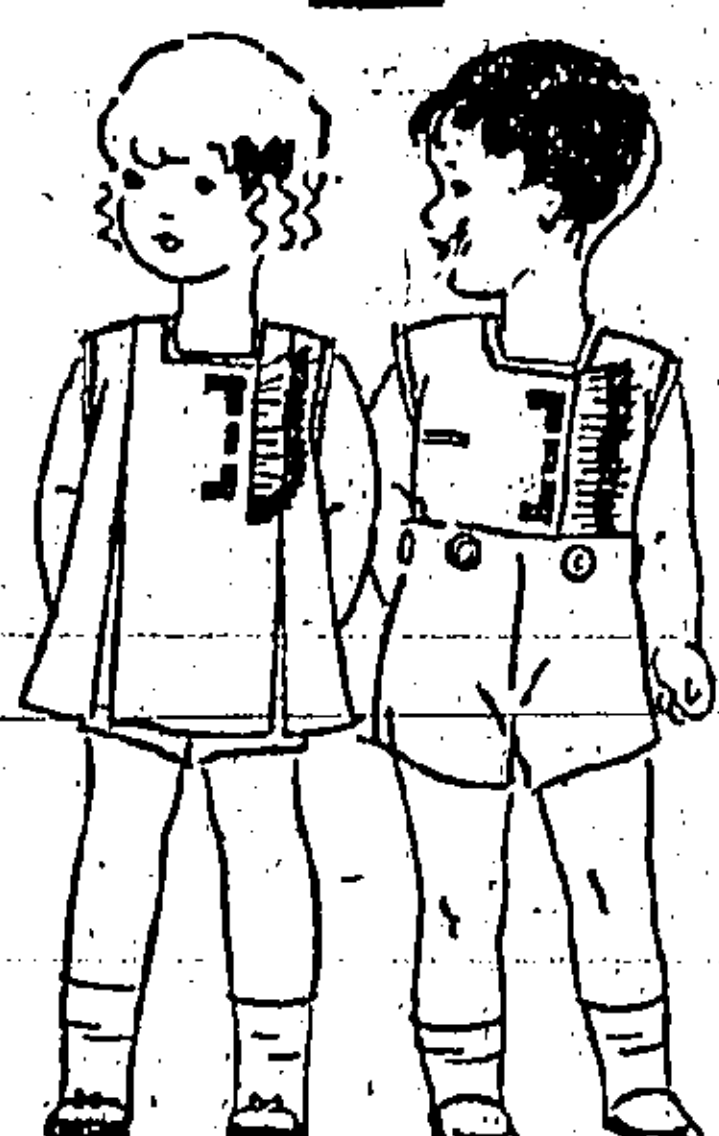

My mother never scolds me, For that is not her way, But often when I'm playing, Her brown eyes seem to say,

"I wouldn't do that, Betty, It's not quite kind, I fear," And when I'm cross or selfish, "Why, Betty, Betty, dear!"

They're sort of like a conscience, When her brown eyes smile at you, They put you on your honour, To be good and kind and true.

SATURDAY'S TRANSLATION.
"It's nice to have a sister the same age as me," thinks Jack, "but I can't say to her, 'you can't play with me, you're only a girl,' when she is as big as I am."

OUR CONTINUED STORY THE BALLOON BOY.

"EDWIN lives on the fourth floor," said Paul. "He goes up and down all these steps every day."

At last they were on the fourth floor. They caught a glimpse of house-tops and factory chimneys from the hall window. Mother and Dad looked at each other and shook their heads. But Paul had found the name "Ely," on a card over a doorbell, and had pressed the button. He couldn't wait another minute.

Then the door opened. A boy stood there—a boy just about Paul's age.

"This is Edwin!" thought Paul, and his heart did a funny flip-flop. But he remembered why he had come so far to find this boy.

"Aren't you Edwin Ely?" asked Paul.

"Yes," said the boy. "Won't you come in?"

The room they entered was small but very neat. From a room beyond came the sound of a woman singing, and the warm fragrance of baked potatoes.

"Mother," called Edwin, "here is someone come to see us."

A bright-eyed little woman came in, and looked in surprise at her visitors. Paul spoke up, for Dad had told him that he must do the talking.

"I found your yellow balloon," he told Edwin. "It came down in our woods, and caught in a tree. When I read your letter—I well, I wanted to see you, instead of just writing, so Dad brought me."

Edwin's eyes were wide with interest. A bit of colour crept into his cheeks that were too thin and pale.

"I'm so glad you did!" he said. "I didn't think that anything so fine would happen, when I stood on the fire escape, and let the balloon float away."

"This is what I came to tell you," said Paul. "I want you to come and spend the summer with me, on our farm at Greendale. There's acres of room, and all kinds of fun. Please say 'yes.'"

It is with much regret that we have to record the death of Miss Phyllis Rathfam, which occurred on Saturday night at 7.30 at the Matilda Hospital. Death was due to typhoid after a fortnight's illness. Deceased was formerly a student in the Diocesan Girls' School and until recently had been in the employ of Mustard & Co. She is survived by her mother, father and brother.

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY

WANCHAI HOME RAIDED.

Four men and a woman were concerned in a gang raid on 174 Wanchai Road on Saturday at 12.45 p.m. The gang was armed with revolvers and daggers and they successfully held up the inmates on the premises and ransacked the house.

The gang decamped with money and jewellery to the value of $800.

BANK OFFICIAL
SUED.BREACH OF PROMISE
ALLEGED.$50,000 AWARD TO CHINESE
LADY.

Shanghai, August 8.—Mr. Jian H. Chen, deputy governor of the Central Bank of China and chairman of the committee appointed to study the abolition of the tael, who is one of the most trusted friends of Mr. T. V. Soong, was ordered by the Second Branch of the Kiangsu High Court yesterday morning to pay Miss Yen Soh Fan the sum of $50,000, damages alleged to have been sustained by plaintiff as a result of defendant's breach of promise to marry her. The amount of the judgment was exactly one half of what Miss Yen claimed.

Plaintiff, who is the daughter of a former high official in Peking and the sister of Mr. Yen Quo-yuan, a former Premier of the Peking Government, alleged that she became engaged to defendant some 15 years ago, before the latter went to America to study in the University of Ohio. At the time of the engagement, plaintiff alleged, defendant was not as wealthy as he is at present so she, having money at the time, paid his expenses. However, while in America, defendant met and fell in love with another girl, whom he subsequently married. Defendant, upon his return to China several years later, informed plaintiff of his marriage and offered to give her freedom but she refused and declined to recognise the marriage, saying that she was the affianced wife of defendant. Plaintiff alleged that she had not married and that she would marry into no other family other than that of defendant.

Another Engagement.

Defendant alleged that, during his absence, plaintiff became engaged to a Mr. Fu, a relative of a former Taoyin of Shanghai and was subsequently married to him. Hearing of this, he naturally concluded that he had been given his freedom so he married another lady.

Plaintiff, denying that she was ever at any time engaged, much less married, to Mr. Fu, said that her relatives, seeing that she was advancing in years, arranged, without her knowledge, for her betrothal to Mr. Fu but, as soon as she heard of the matter, she immediately terminated the arrangement, with the consent of the Fu family, to whom the circumstances of the case were explained.

When the case came before the Shanghai Special District Court, judgment was given in defendant's favour but plaintiff appealed, with the result that she has now been given judgment as stated.

SHANGHAI OUTRAGE

BRITON FIRED AT BY ROBBER.

Pluckily attempting to seize a trespasser on the premises of his residence, Mr. R. A. Wright of the Shanghai Telephone Company and a British subject, narrowly escaped death when the man, a Chinese, fired at him with a pistol.

Mr. Wright saw the man shortly before 11 p.m. on Friday, in the compound of the house, 68 Great Western Road. He gave chase to him and seized the man's leg as he was half way over the wall.

The Chinese rapidly drew a pistol and fired, the bullet whizzing past Mr. Wright, who let go the man's leg and took cover alongside the wall, while the bandit escaped. So far as Mr. Wright could see the Chinese was unaccompanied.

Mr. Wright immediately rushed to the telephone and informed Bubbling Well Police Station as to what had happened. The station alarm was sounded and two carloads, of police, armed with steel waistcoats, hastened to the scene of the shooting. Inspector Bishop being in charge, while motor-cycles also went out on patrol. A cordon was thrown around the neighbourhood and searches of motor cars and pedestrians made, but without any result.

Police inquiries are proceeding.

PEIPING HEARS OF
WOMAN SPY.WORKING FOR MANCHUKUO
TO GATHER INFORMATION.

Peiping, August 4.—Local Chinese circles are greatly excited over the report that a beautiful Russian woman, alleged to be in the secret service of Manchukuo, has arrived here for the purpose of spying on the movements of local military leaders and also obtaining military and political information.

It is said that she is trying to work her way by offering her services as a maid-servant or nurse to a certain influential personage here.

The local Chinese press also recounts the circumstances which led her to enter the employ of the Manchukuo secret service. She is a widow but recently she fell in love with another Russian, who is, however, too poor to afford a honeymoon trip to Europe. He therefore suggested to her that she offer her services to Manchukuo as a spy.

Her presence in Peiping was discovered through the interception of a letter alleged to have been written by her to her lover, in which she said that when she returned to Mukden and got a large sum of money from Manchukuo, their honeymoon plans would be settled.

The woman is said to have been here once before with her lover and her two children. Local police expect to have her arrested shortly.

COMMANDER FITZROY TO COMMAND DRAGON.FOR TWO YEARS COMMANDER OF THE ROYAL YACHT.

Shanghai, August 9.—Commander R. O. Fitzroy has been appointed to the cruiser Dragon, at present in Canadian waters, which is under orders to return home to recommission at Chatham. Commander Fitzroy was promoted in December, 1928, after two years in the Royal Yacht Victoria and Albert, and he commanded the sloop Crocus in the Persian Gulf in 1929-30.

Later he was commander of the Froisher, Reserve Fleet flagship, and last winter he took out to China a destroyer division in H.M.S. Witch, returning in command of the Scarpis and of the division of relieved vessels. Early in the War, Commander Fitzroy was sub-lieutenant of the battleship Centurion, in the Grand Fleet. He afterwards went in for the command of coastal motor-boats, and was interned in Holland from August 11 to December 13, 1918, after an action in which these craft were engaged.

SUBSTITUTES FOR JAPANESE GOODS.A FURTHER WARNING TO MERCHANTS.

Chinese merchants dealing in Japanese goods are urged by their General Chamber of Commerce to substitute either native or European products for those imported from Japan, says the North China Daily News.

In a circular letter to the various trade guilds, the Greater Shanghai Chinese General Chamber of Commerce reminds them of the three resolutions adopted by a meeting held in September last and attended by representatives of the various local trade guilds. The three resolutions are that the severance of economic relations between China and Japan should be strictly enforced; that native banks and foreign-style banks should cease doing business with shops dealing in Japanese goods; and that "picketing groups" should be formed by the various trade guilds for the purpose of keeping a close watch on their members buying Japanese goods.

Despite the adoption of the above three resolutions by the merchants themselves, the circular continues, the Japanese imports to Shanghai have shown a considerable increase since the signing of the Shanghai armistice agreement with the result that the nation's enemy has been provided with more funds to enable him to intensify his aggressions in China.

Warning to Merchants.

After stating that Chinese merchants dealing in Japanese goods are solely responsible for the increase in Japanese exports to China, the letter urges that in future native or European products be used by merchants who have been hitherto dealing in Japanese goods. Only this, the letter states in conclusion, will prevent the countrymen from denouncing the merchants as the selfish and "traitorous" people.

Besides the letter of the Chinese Chamber, urging the use of national products, a manifesto has been issued by over 80 local trade guilds, demanding the immediate release of Yung Wei Fan, a Chinese youth, who was arrested by members of the Nantao Public Safety Bureau last Friday for throwing a bomb into the premises of a cotton cloth shop off Boulevard des Deux Republicques. At the Public Safety Bureau, the youth admitted having thrown the bomb and said he had done so to warn the shop proprietors against dealing in Japanese goods.

The manifesto issued by the local trade guilds asserts that the act of the arrested youth is a patriotic action similar to that of the volunteer army in Manchuria and, therefore, he should be acquitted of the charge against him and immediately released. The manifesto further states that as the Government does not want to punish the volunteer army because they fight the Japanese troops in Manchuria, it certainly cannot punish a mere youth whose action has been inspired by a sense of patriotism.

ROBBERS KILL SHOP
OWNER.

SHANGHAI CRIME.

Shanghai, August 9.—An armed robbery that failed because a case of murder yesterday morning, when the victim of bullets fired by the would-be robbers died at St. Luke's Hospital.

The dead man, Tsang Ching Sung, 28 years of age, was the keeper of a small cigarette shop at 97 East Hanbury Road, where he lived with his wife.

Tsang on Sunday night was sitting behind the counter of his shop, awaiting the return of his wife, who had gone out to buy hot water. Prior to her leaving the house the front door had been bolted.

Within a minute of her departure two men, of whom one was armed, entered the house. They (Continued at foot of next column.)

PEER'S DAUGHTER
WANTS HUSBAND.FINANCIAL TROUBLES
FORCE GIRL TO DISCARD PRESTIGE.

"Wanted; a matrimonial chance by a well educated, able-bodied and good looking daughter, 28, of a Viscount." This was one of the want ads that recently appeared in the Tokyo dailies, giving rise to much comment and made many wonder who the advertiser could be.

Women trying to get in the marriage market through the medium of newspaper advertisements are nothing new. But for girls born and brought up in aristocratic circles, where convention for its own sake governs, the very idea struck the public as singularly unique. The advertiser, or rather the principal figure, proved to be Miss Wakako Yamanouchi, daughter of the late Viscount Toyosuke Yamanouchi and cousin of Marquis Toyokage Yamanouchi, scion of the feudal lord of the Tosa clan.

Late Father Well Known.

Her late father, Viscount Yamanouchi, was the head of a branch family of Marquis Yamanouchi, who distinguished himself by persuading the late Prince Yoshihisa Tokugawa, the 15th Shogun, to restore full administrative power to the Throne, which went a long way toward accomplishing the Meiji Restoration.

Her late father, having business acumen, embarked some 20 years ago on several business enterprises, and for a while he did fairly well. The unsuccessful outcome of the reclamation of Yokohama's tide flats, however, reduced him almost to penury.

All he had, including his stately mansion on Mikawadai, Azabu, Tokyo, changed hands. The Viscount passed away a few years later. The widowed Viscountess, with seven children, moved from one place to another, until she settled down at Koshi, the native place where their forefathers held sway in the bygone days.

Miss Wakako in due time was graduated from the Koshi girls' high school but the ebb tide of her family's finances has so far stood in the way of tying a nuptial knot. The advertisement in question was inserted by Mr. Kisoji Kato, retired teacher of a primary school, who taught her at Mikawadai primary school, Tokyo, while the Yamanouchis were yet able to uphold a Viscountship dignity.

Three Responses.

Thus far three prospective bridegrooms have answered the call of the advertisements, says the Osaka Mainichi. One of them says he is youth of 29 and graduate of a secondary school. As a Municipal clerk he earns Y.85 a month.

The second one comes from a youngman of 31, an instructor of a primary school in Taiwan, who says he expects to pass the higher civil service examination soon. The third is from a youth of 27, now earning Y.75. The last named says he is anxious to embark on a business career if the Viscount is only willing to advance him Y.300,000.

were not long in showing their intentions, for Tsang shouted out "robbers." Then three shots rang out.

Neighbours had heard the shouts and the shots, and looking anxiously into the street, saw the two men run out of it and down the road. Then an old woman who lives next door to the shop went in, to find Tsang lying badly wounded on the floor. Just afterwards Tsang's wife returned and the two got him into a ricksha and took him off to St. Luke's Hospital. A police constable called to the scene telephoned to Kashi Road station and detectives commenced their investigations immediately. Nothing had been stolen from the shop.

Tsang, who had little hope of living as all three shots had taken effect, two in the stomach, and one in the left hand, died at 6 a.m. yesterday. The inquest will be held to-day.

ARMS SMUGGLING
IN JAPAN.YEN 600,000 WORTH OF
PISTOLS PASS THROUGH KOBE.

The Osaka police have tracked a gang of smugglers of pistols into China and the South Seas, and have effected the arrest of Kajiro Ugai and two others at Koshien. They are on the trail of Seiken Maemoto, the alleged ringleader, and about ten members of the gang, who are still at large.

A big safe with its interior skillfully reconstructed was landed at Taingtao on July 24 from a ship arriving from Kobe, and on examination by Customs officials it was found to contain 150 pistols. The Osaka police were immediately communicated with, and their subsequent activity led to the arrest mentioned.

It seems that the smuggling has been going on for some time on a large scale. Sometimes, arms were shipped out from Osaka, and sometimes from Kobe, Nagasaki or Moji. The value of the smuggled pistols hitherto discovered is put at over Yen 600,000.

The smugglers are said to have bought from Osaka and Kobe dealers in firearms pistols which the latter had smuggled into Japan themselves, and have been smuggling them out again, realising big gains in the transaction. Big safes are a favourite camouflage to deceive Customs officials, because of their heavy weight.

SIGNING THE
AGREEMENT.MR. MACDONALD'S
SERVICES.

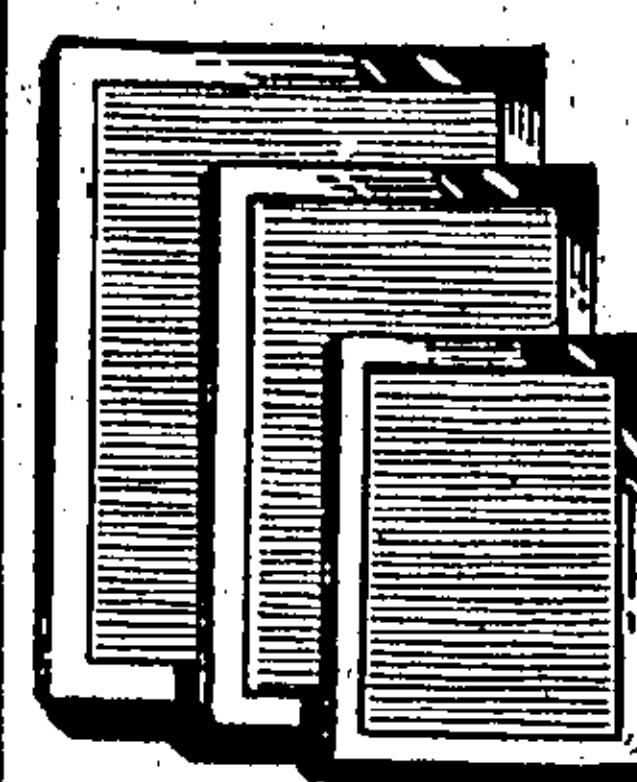

Lausanne, July 10.—The Final Act of the Lausanne Conference was signed at a plenary session opened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the hall of the Beau Rivage Hotel at Ouchy. The delegations were seated, as at the first meeting, at tables arranged in horseshoe form.

As soon as Mr. MacDonald had opened the session, Sir John Simon made a statement reassuring the smaller countries on a point which, like several others, had, presumably, been overlooked in the haste of Friday evening. He desired, he said, to make the following statement on behalf of his Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom in order to make clear the position as regards the War debts due to Great Britain by the invited Powers.

The effect of the Declaration of the Conference signed on June 10, 1932, is extended to cover the suspension of the payments due in respect of such War debts until the Lausanne Agreement with Germany which we are signing to-day has come into force, or until the decision has been reached that it will not be possible to ratify that agreement.

M. Germain-Martin, the French Finance Minister, and Signor Mosconi, the Italian Finance Minister, associated themselves with this arrangement on behalf of their respective Governments. This reassurance did not suffice to persuade the smaller countries to abandon the reservations they had made on Friday, when they protested that they had not been given enough time to examine the document, and the only non-inviting Power to sign yesterday was Poland.

The Final Act was then signed by Mr. MacDonald as President of the Conference, and then in order by the principal Belgian delegates, by Sir John Simon for Great Britain, Sir Granville Byrie for Australia, Mr. Howard Ferguson for Canada, Sir Thomas Wilford for New Zealand, M. Herriot and his colleagues for France, Signor Mosconi and Beneduce for Italy, Mr. Yoshida and his colleagues for Japan, M. Zaleski for Poland, and, finally, Herr von Papen, Baron von Neurath, and the other German Ministers.

BRITISH AGRICULTURAL SHOWS.

This year's agricultural shows have been varied in character from the point of view of the number of exhibits and of visitors. In some cases the prevailing depression has been reflected in the falling off of entries and in lack of public interest; in others there has been evidence of quickened interest from both points of view. Thus at the well-known Bath and West Show, held at Yeovil, the cattle entries were not nearly so numerous as usual, though some types—namely Devons, Guernseys, Dairy Shorthorns and British Friesians—provided strong classes. Sheep entries were not up to the average, though on the other hand pigs and poultry were more numerous than ever, and the competitions for horse-shoeing, basket making, butter making and the like were well patronised.

The famous Three Counties Show, which was held this year at Gloucester, suffered from the serious initial handicap of the showground being swamped a few days before the show. The local fire brigade came to the rescue, however, and pumped the ground dry. Here again entries were lower than usual, the only sections showing an increase being the goats, the butter-making classes, and the bees and honey sections. Nevertheless, the quality of the exhibits was marvellously good. Although the farmers were not showing many of their stocks, it was evident that they have not allowed prevailing conditions to affect their determination to breed only the best.

The Royal Cornwall Show held at Penryn was a success from every point of view. Entries were larger than ever and visitors were more numerous. There was indeed a general atmosphere of determination and hopeful expectancy.

The vitality of British husbandry was evident as far as Cornwall was concerned. Forty dairymaids competed in the butter-making classes. The cattle classes produced some beautiful stock, Guernseys taking the lead. The display of machinery was large; and there was a special exhibition of local arts and crafts. Throughout Cornwall there is a large proportion of small family farms, and as the county is hilly the horse still holds pride of place on these small farms against the tractor. The small farmers in Cornwall are enthusiasts for the horse and they entered some beautiful specimens.

This pride in the horse was also shown at the Royal Norfolk Show held at Norwich. The exhibits of all kinds were more numerous than usual; but the entries of heavy horses were exceptionally great. Some splendid horses competed in the various classes, especially in those for the Suffolks, which outnumbered other heavy horses by three to one. The young stock, exhibited by Norfolk farmers, was particularly good. In the cattle section the Shorthorns were numerically the strongest; but the Friesians also made a good display. Another interesting feature of the Royal Norfolk Show was the excellent display of goats. It is a comparatively short time since English farmers took to goat-breeding, but now it is claimed that British goats surpass the world's records in milk production. Many of these English-bred goats can produce well over a gallon of milk a day, and it is immune from tuberculous contamination.

Perhaps the most famous of British agricultural shows is that held annually by the Royal Agricultural Society and popularly known as the "Royal." This year's show, held at Southampton, was the ninety-first. Here again there was a falling off of entries of livestock. The usual number is round about three thousand; this year the total reached only 2,592; and the number of visitors was also less than usual. But if the quantity was lower, the quality was as high as ever. It has been suggested that the excellent wares the Royal can provide should be better advertised. As against that the more conservative-minded might agree that the exhibits themselves are their own best advertisement. For as to the excellence there can be no question.

To quote The Times, "the pedigree herds and flocks of Great Britain, its thoroughbreds and hunters, and its Shires, Clydesdales, Suffolks and Percherons, all prized all over the world for the unsurpassed standard of their progeny, and, if the actual number of the entries at the Royal this year is below the usual figure, the figure of the breeds listed in the catalogue was wide as ever." The entry of 437 horses included ten different breeds, headed by seventy-six Suffolks and there were seventeen breeds of cattle, sixteen of sheep, and eight of pigs, in which the greater number of entries were provided respectively by Dairy Shorthorns, Southdowns and Large Whites.

Although the number of live-stock exhibits was smaller than usual, there was a larger section of the Royal devoted to the work of rural craftsmen. There were beautiful examples of wrought-iron ware, furniture, textiles and pottery, and obviously the English country folk are regaining their old dexterity, power, and taste, in both design and execution. Financial and commercial difficulties have hampered British agriculture and the rural population of Great Britain and depressed British agriculture to a sad extent; but the British countrymen have held on in a commendable manner. They continue to improve their breeds of live-stock; and they are regaining their old position in the arts and crafts of the country.

Eggs and Salads.

Eggs mollets, which are eggs boiled long enough for the white to set hard enough for peeling and the yolk to remain still soft, are often welcome when others are not. They appear mostly on our tables as what the French calls aufs à la coque, an apparent misnomer which caused much curiosity and confusion among newly arrived venturers on Continental shores. If we cannot have a cock's egg, then we can have these by cooking them in boiling water for six minutes, and no more, plunging them into cold water, and peeling them carefully. They may be served in many ways—for example, on a bed of asparagus tips, or green peas, or chopped, cooked ham or tongue, warmed in butter and "cohered," if you like, with an egg yolk; or on a grilled halve of tomato, or on a few small pieces of cooked potato lightly sauté in butter; or with various sauces, such as béchamel, tomato, and so on, and, for the hardier, cheese or paprika.

When it is very hot salads are delicious for breakfast and have been known even to break down the prejudices of the anti-fruiteaters. How better adorn than by surmounting them with stuffed long halves of hard-boiled eggs? Here are a few fillings, which do not take much time to prepare, in every case combined with the crushed yolk of the egg and moistened with a little cream or milk: pounded anchovies or simply anchovy essence with a smattering of chopped capers; shrimps or prawns; kipper, dried haddock, tinned salmon, or any kind of cooked fish suitably seasoned; chopped ham or tongue with parsley; tiny bits of chopped very crisply fried bacon; pieces of chicken or game.

Vines to Turn Professional?

A statement has appeared that in the event of America winning the Davis Cup Vines will become a professional. This would perhaps not be so damaging a step for America as it appears on first thoughts. If the cup goes to America, future contests would take place there in conditions obviously favourable to the home players. In addition, the United States have a reserve of young players of remarkable quality. From Vines' point of view the moment for turning professional appears to be well chosen. If he helps to restore the symbol of tennis sovereignty to America he will be in great favour. No doubt Tilden will have some part in any professional exhibitions, but the difficulty for the showmen is to convince the crowd the matches they play are not merely exhibitions. One can imagine what fat fees Vines may get for giving lessons, but it is doubtful whether he will be able to teach the secret of his service and fierce driving. Genius cannot be taught.

Diesel Engine 'Buses.

The delegates from the Manchester Transport Department who attended last month the International Transport Congress at the Hague, took the opportunity while abroad to see what is being done in the large cities of Germany, in the way of running oil-engined 'buses. They visited Berlin, Cologne, Frankfurt, and Dresden, and found the Diesel engine extensively used and favourably spoken of by the heads of the transport undertakings.

The total output of the Kailan Mining Administration's mines for the week ending July 30 amounted to 108,810 metric tons, and the sales during the period to 55,337 metric tons.

Mr. R. Stuart Pilcher, general manager of the Manchester Transport Department, who was one of the delegates, said that only the difficulty of raising capital in Germany at the present time prevented large additions to the fleet of Diesel-engined 'buses. The Manchester delegates were on the lookout for any improvements in this class of engine that might have been effected, and were naturally interested in what they saw, seeing that Manchester has 30 Diesel-engined 'buses and 35 more on order. Mr. Pilcher said that what they saw in Germany confirmed them in their desire to see the petrol-burning 'buses in Manchester replaced by oil-burning 'buses.

National Canning Issues Terms.

Mr. S. W. Smedley, who presided at a meeting of the National Canning Company, referred to the great expansion that has taken place in the last four or five years in the output of the British canning industry, and looking to the future said that he saw no reason why the industry should not continue to expand. He pointed out that while this country consumed six times as much canned fruit as it did before the War, about 148,000 tons of imported canned fruit were eaten in Great Britain last year. Yet the output of British canned fruit, although it represented a phenomenal advance on the figure for four or five years previously, amounted roughly to only 25,000 tons. As he said, these figures point to the possibilities of development. As stated in the report, it is the directors' intention to issue the balance of unissued capital—namely, 22,744 shares. These, Mr. Smedley said, would be offered to the shareholders at 25s. a share, payable as to 5s. on application and 20s. on allotment. In the event of over-subscription the shares will be allotted to the shareholders pro rata to their holdings. The new capital is required for financing the company's trade and not for capital expenditure, for Mr. Smedley said that the amount required on the latter account in the current year should be small.

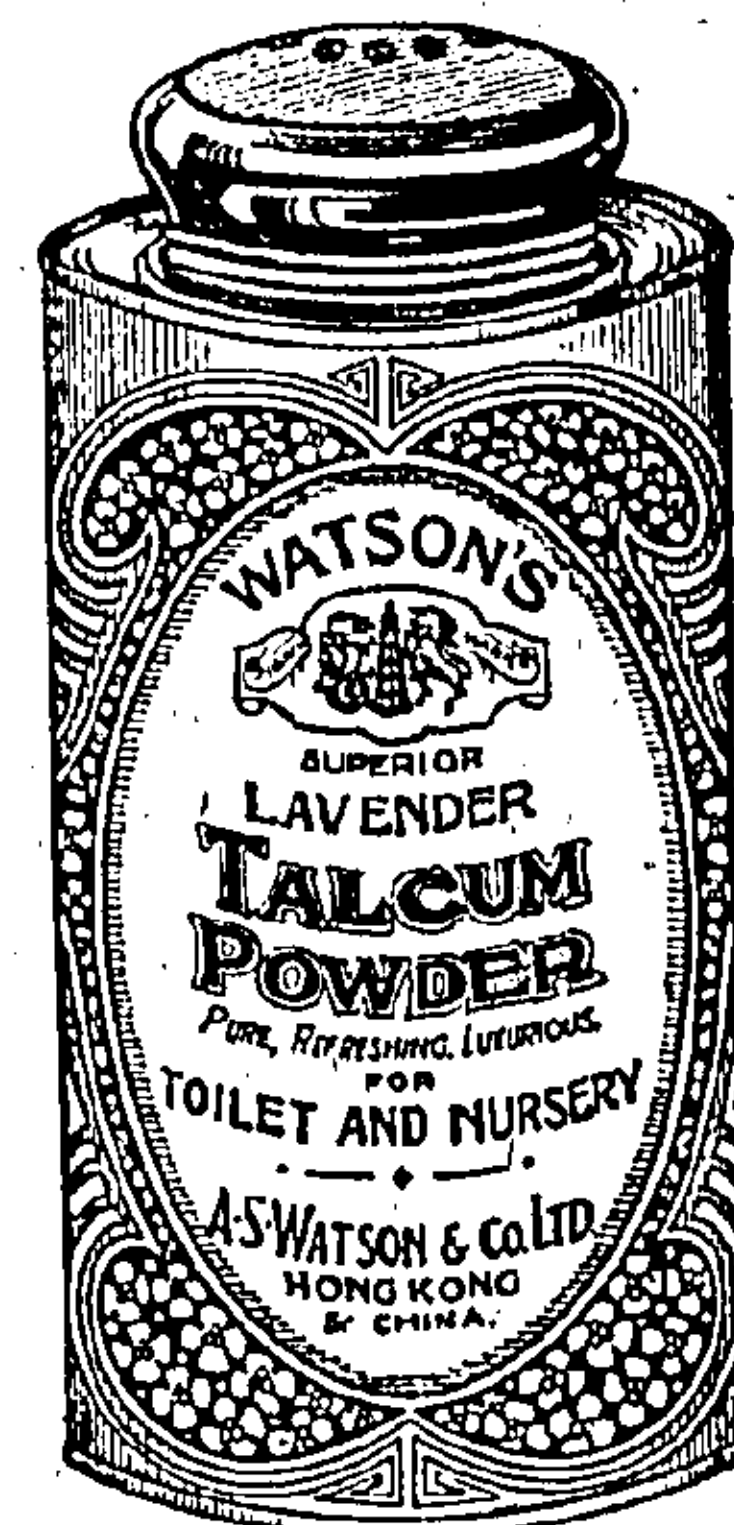

High Mass in Cistercian Ruins

The ancient Cistercian ruins of Rievaulx Abbey in Yorkshire were last month the scene of a Roman Catholic pilgrimage to celebrate the eight-hundredth anniversary of the foundation of the abbey. It is estimated that 15,000 persons were present. Five thousand came from Leeds, Sheffield, Harrogate, and Bradford, and another 5,000 from Hexham, Newcastle, Salford, and Lancaster.

Pontifical High Mass was sung in the ruins, with their background of wooded slopes, by a choir of 100 monks and boys from Ampleforth. The altar had been erected under a canopy on the site of the original altar. The Mass was sung by the Bishop of Middlesbrough (Dr. Shine), and others in sanctuary were Dom Lawrence Higgins, Dom Sebastian Lambert, Dom John Maddox, Dom George Forbes, Dom Terence Wright, Canon J. E. Claus, Father William Brunner, and Dom Ignatius Miller. Those present included the Bishop of Salford (Dr. Henshaw), the Cistercian Abbot of Mount St. Bernard's, Coalville, and

Evidence of congestion in Glasgow streets was given at a recent sitting of the Traffic Commissioners for the Southern Area of Scotland, held in Glasgow, when an application was considered from the Lanarkshire Traction Company, Motherwell, to allow their 'buses to operate through the city to Blythswood Square instead of stopping at Cathedral Street or Carlton Place.

Romance and Tea Caddies.

There are romantic associations attached to a pair of Queen Anne tea caddies and a sugar bowl sold at Christie's on July 20. Made by the famous silversmith David Williamson about 1705, and inscribed "The Gift of Humphrey Pridcaux to Sarah Ford," these pieces are reputed to have been the property of a naval officer, who brought them home from America after the War of Independence and gave them to his sweetheart, whom he was not permitted to marry. For 100 years they were lost sight of until recently found by one of the officer's descendants on a South Pacific Island in a suit case belonging to a descendant of the officer who died there.

Army Officers With the Fleet.

A limited number of Army Officers were attached to the Home Fleet for the summer cruise. Although Staff College students have formerly been attached to the fleet, this is the first occasion on which regimental officers have been attached in any number. During their attachment the officers were shown the difference between land and naval gunnery and some aspects of the different administrative problems which confronted the sister Service. These attachments have a very definite co-operation value. It is hoped in the future to continue these attachments as far as accommodation in the ships permits, and also to attach naval officers to the Army during collective training.

Two Shorthorn bulls, exhibited by the King at the Royal Agricultural Show, which closed at Southampton last month, have been sold to buyers representing the Soviet Government. The animals came from the Royal farms at Windsor and were both bred on the King's Estates.

The number of paying visitors to the Show was very disappointing. The final figures when the Show closed were under 50,000.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

REMONETISATION OF SILVER JETTISONED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, August 12. A worldwide rise in the general levels of wholesale prices is most desirable, declares a statement on the monetary and financial question, issued by the Imperial Conference at Ottawa.

The evil of falling prices must, says the statement, be attacked by Government and individual action in all its causes, political, economic, financial and monetary.

The Governments represented at the Conference are convinced that international action is urgently necessary to deal with the problem in its widest aspect, and desire to co-operate with other nations in any practicable measures for raising wholesale prices.

British Attitude.

The Conference welcomes the statement of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, expressing the desire of His Majesty's Government to see wholesale prices rise, and declaring that "the best condition therefore will be a rise in gold prices," adding that "the absence of a rise in gold prices inevitably limits what can be done for sterling."

Mr. Chamberlain's statement proceeds that "a rise in prices cannot be effected by monetary action, since various other factors which have combined to bring about the present depression must also be modified or removed, but His Majesty's Government recognises that an ample supply of short-term money at low rates may have a valuable influence, and is confident that the efforts which have successfully brought about the present favourable monetary conditions can and will be continued."

Low Interest Rates.

The Conference recommends the other Commonwealth countries represented at Ottawa to act in conformity with the policy outlined by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, as far as lies in their power.

In the monetary sphere, the primary line of action towards a rise in prices should be the creation and maintenance, within the limits of sound finance, of conditions which will assist in the revival and enterprise of trade, including low rates of interest and an abundance of short-term money.

International Standard.

Referring to the importance of trade of stability of exchange rates over the widest area possible, the statement says complete solution must await the restoration of conditions for the satisfactory working of an international standard.

Meanwhile, the Conference has considered the possibility of achieving valuable results in two directions—firstly, creating an area of stability among those countries regulating their currencies in relation to sterling; and, secondly, avoiding wide day-to-day fluctuations between sterling and gold.

The Conference is gratified that the United Kingdom has already established machinery aiming at preventing wide fluctuations between gold and the value of sterling due to speculative movements, and recognises the value of Commonwealth countries whose currencies are linked to sterling maintaining stability between their exchange rates. The Conference looks to a rise in the general level of wholesale prices as the most desirable means of facilitating this result.

World Conference.

The Committee which has been studying financial and monetary questions refrains from making any recommendation in regard to the restoration of a satisfactory international monetary standard in view of the fact that the question will shortly be discussed at an international economic conference.

At the same time, the Committee is of opinion that the most important conditions precedent to the re-establishment of any international monetary standard are a rise in the general level of commodity prices in various countries to a height more in keeping with the level of costs, including the burden of debts and other fixed and semi-fixed charges.

International Co-operation.

The return also demands the adjustment of the factors, political, economic, financial and monetary, which caused the breakdown of the gold standard in many countries and which, if left unadjusted will inevitably lead to another breakdown, whatever international standard is adopted.

The Conference is also of the opinion that it is most important to the future working of any international standard that international co-operation should be secured and maintained, as far as is practicable, wide fluctuations in the purchasing power of the standards of value.

BRITISH PRINCES IN SIR H. LAUDER'S VENICE

HEARTILY WELCOMED BY CROWDS

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, August 12. THE Prince of Wales and Prince George reached Venice this afternoon and found a great crowd awaiting them at Santa Lucia station. They were heartily cheered as they left for their hotel.

The Imperial Airways seaplane "Sotyr" will carry them to-morrow to Corfu, where they will join the Mediterranean Fleet. The programme of the Fleet's manoeuvres makes it impossible for the Princes to attend all the social functions given in their honour at Corfu, but they will land and attend a reception on Sunday. The island is gaily decorated with the Greek and British flags.

LONDON, August 14. THE World Speed Record holder, Flight-Lieut. Stainforth, had a disconcerting experience when testing a new type of aeroplane. When ten thousand feet above Hampshire the propeller dropped off and Stainforth glided fourteen miles to find a suitable landing place. He landed perfectly.

TWO BRITISH AIRMAN DISAPPEAR

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

RANGOON, August 13. A MESSAGE received here late to-night says that the two British aviators, Salt and Taylor, on a private flying venture which they hoped would carry them from Malaya to England, have vanished. They disappeared somewhere between Moulmein and Rangoon, and it is feared they have been lost at sea. They are long overdue at their destination.

AIR TRAVEL POPULAR

2,000 LEAVE CROYDON WEEKLY

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, August 12. THE extremely rapid growth of air travel is shown by the fact that whereas thirteen years ago only twenty passengers left Croydon in an average week, now 2,000 leave that airport weekly.

This hundredfold increase promises to be rapidly exceeded, for in the first six months of this year the Imperial Airways carried 30,000 passengers from Croydon alone, as many as the total carried during the whole of last year.

It is now possible to book by air from Croydon for 130 continental centres, apart from Empire services.

RUGBY, August 12. At Ottawa to-day, the United Kingdom and Canadian delegations continued their joint examination of the Canadian proposals. The British delegates also conferred with the Newfoundland delegation.

DAN MALONE TO BE DEPORTED

SUSPECT OF PLOT TO KILL MR. THOMAS

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

TORONTO, August 13. Although Dan Malone, young Irishman, suspected of plotting with others to assassinate Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominion, has been cleared of any real suspicions in that connection, he will be deported.

Malone was arrested in Hamilton, near here, during the visit of Imperial Conference delegates to Niagara Falls and Welland to attend the opening of the New Welland Canal. It was suspected at that time that he was implicated in a Sinn Féin plot to murder Mr. Thomas, and possibly others of the Imperial delegation.

With a number of others, Malone was arrested and charged with vagrancy. He will be deported as an "undesirable."

MANAGER DEAD

PASSES AWAY IN WINGS OF THEATRE

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, August 14. WHILE Sir H. Lauder was entertaining a huge audience at blackpool, his manager and brother-in-law, Tom Vallance, dropped dead in the wings of the theatre from heart failure.

Vallance had been Sir H. Lauder's shadow, accompanying him throughout the world for thirty-four years.

Sir H. Lauder nearly collapsed on hearing the news. He sat sobbing bitterly behind the scenes as the house was roaring with applause at his last song.

EXTREME "DRYS" SUPPORT HOOVER

PROHIBITION'S COUP-DE-GRACE

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

WASHINGTON, August 13. THE immediate reaction of President Hoover's speech in acceptance of the Republican nomination, centres round his references to Prohibition wherein he advocated the return to a State option with restrictions, but with no return of the saloons.

Senator Fess, the Republican of Ohio, one of the leaders of the original Prohibition movement, outspokenly supports Mr. Hoover's recommendations, which he says will not meet with the approval of either the extreme "Wets" or the extreme "Drys" but, he thinks, will be accepted as reasonable by a vast majority of sane-thinking people.

The extreme "Drys" are of the opinion that while Mr. Hoover's policy would nullify National Prohibition, he is nevertheless more their friend than Mr. Roosevelt, and they propose to confine their efforts to securing the return to the Congress of as many "Drys" as possible.

Newspaper comment is divided on partisan lines, but one Southern paper calls Mr. Hoover's speech "Prohibition's coup-de-grace."

CRASH ON NEW YORK 'CHANGE

SOME SHARES FALL TWELVE POINTS

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

NEW YORK, August 12. THE Stock Exchange had its long-expected shake-out to-day. Shares fell precipitately towards the close of the day's trading, a torrent of selling occurring in the last hour.

The crash brought down many of the leading issues from one to five points and a few fell from six to twelve points.

Uneasiness showed itself on the market from the beginning. The feature of the early trading was the firmness of the alcohol issues, presumably owing to President Hoover's declaration that he is in favour of State option.

In other sections, buyers were cautious and very little business was done. The trading avalanche did not commence until the last hour when thousands and thousands of shares were thrown upon the market and brought about the landslide.

Before the Exchange closed, the day's turnover over shares had exceeded three and a half millions.

FURTHER TROUBLE IN CHILE

STUDENTS DECLARE A "CIVIL REPUBLIC"

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

SANTIAGO DE CHILE, Aug. 13. A STATE of seige was declared here following the Communist revolt, aimed at the restoration of Colonel Marmaduke Grove as head of the Military-Communist Junta, and there was severe fighting before the Government troops succeeded in dispersing the rebels.

Colonel Grove, son of a Cornish gentleman, and one-time virtual dictator of Chile, was deposed by the present Government faction shortly after he seized power in June last.

To-day's revolt began when 400 students barricaded themselves in the university buildings and proclaimed a "civil republic." They were aided by Communists from all parts of the city. Two regiments of Government troops had to be summoned before the students, armed with machine guns and rifles, capitulated.

Eight persons were killed and 30 (Continued at foot of next column.)

DANGER OF CIVIL WAR

STATE OF NERVOUSNESS THROUGHOUT IRELAND

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

DUBLIN, Aug. 14. A new danger of Civil War appears on the troubled horizon of Irish Free State politics with the announcement that the National Executive Army and Comrades' Association are recruiting a volunteer division.

The newly formed body will be composed largely of ex-officers and men of the Free State Army, whom it is generally thought are massing in challenge to the present Government's policy regarding the Irish Republican Army.

Mr. de Valera declines to make a statement on this matter, but the feeling of insecurity is growing throughout the country.

HITLER WANTS ALL OR NOTHING

POLITICAL STORM FEARED IN GERMANY

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BERLIN, August 13. Negotiations between Herr Von Hitler, Nazi Leader, Chancellors, Von Papen, General Von Schleicher and President Von Hindenburg have failed utterly. Herr Hitler demanded the Chancellors of Germany, but the utmost the Hindenburg Government was prepared to concede were the Vice-Chancellorship and the Reich Premiership of Prussia.

Herr Hitler insisted in the final conversation with Herr Von Papen that the recent election had shown that Germany wanted him as Chancellor, and he, therefore, was unable to accept any other post.

He also demanded the portfolios of the Ministers of Interior and Defence for members of the Nazi party.

On these latter points the Chancellor was prepared to negotiate, but Herr Hitler's insistence on the Chancellorship made further conversation impossible.

Afterwards Herr Hitler called on President Hindenburg, who similarly refused to concede the Chancellorship to the Nazi Chief.

CULT OF THE NUDE

SUDDEN CHANGE IN GERMANY

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BERLIN, August 12. THE cult of the nude, which has been so popular in Germany for many years, is to be ruthlessly suppressed, in Prussia at all events.

The decision has taken the public completely by surprise. Naktkultur has come to be an accepted thing in all walks of life and the movement has been duplicated in numerous countries on the German model.

The first intimation of an official change of attitude towards the movement came to-day in the form of the promulgation of drastic decrees against the cult of the nude.

They were issued to-night by the Deputy Commissioner of Prussia, practically the Dictator with Herr von Papen actively engaged in the politics of the Reich, and they forbid not only stage spectacles with naked women and gymnastic displays by naked persons of both sexes, but also bathing without proper costumes.

The decrees also forbid bathers to visit restaurants in scanty bathing costumes.

SUNGARI STILL RISING

CHOLERA AND TYPHOID EPIDEMICS FEARED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

HARBIN, August 13. THE Sungari floods are still rising. The entire suburb of Pristan is now flooded and many houses are collapsing.

Many of these houses are occupied by people who declined to leave and took refuge in the attics. It is feared that many of these unfortunate people have been victims of the collapses.

The peril of a disease outbreak is intensifying. The cholera outbreak is spreading rapidly and there were forty fresh cases on Thursday.

A further menace lies in the fact that all the wells in Pristan, are contaminated and an epidemic of typhoid is feared.

HOUSES COLLAPSE IN HARBIN

HARBIN, Aug. 13. Buildings in Fuchien are collapsing, and a four-storeyed Hotel, and the "New World" Theatre have collapsed, claiming several victims.

The locally formed organisations are unable to cope with the increasing demands for relief.

The situation at New Town is even worse.

MERCHANTS SUPPORT MOVEMENT.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

CANTON, Aug. 13. At the general meeting of the Canton City Chamber of Commerce in session, a resolution was reached on Friday's meeting to offer unanimous support to the anti-Japanese boycott movement. It was decided that upon a firm in the city having been found to have dealings with Japanese goods, such a fact having been confirmed by the anti-Japanese Society in the city, all business houses shall be circumscribed to sever relations with the said "smuggling" firm, which shall also be struck out of the membership register of the Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting also passed a ruling that persons working in government tax offices shall not be allowed to serve on the Chamber's committees.

BRITISH POLICY IN CHINA

REQUEST THAT INFORMATION BE PUBLISHED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

SHANGHAI, August 13. THE suggestion in a Shanghai morning paper to the effect that the Foreign Office should occasionally publish information respecting Great Britain's policy with regard to British Trade and Settlement interests in China, has aroused keen interest in official quarters. It is expected that official intimation will be given next week as to whether such an arrangement is possible.

It was pointed out, however, that the chief obstacle to such a development, despite its usefulness to British trade and Settlement interests, is the undesirability of making public anything in the nature of a forecast of British policy towards a foreign power.

The position in the India Office, which periodically issues statements regarding British policy, is not analogous, as India is a member of the British Empire, and whereas the Anglo-Chinese relations are naturally much more delicate a matter.

CHINA AND MANCHURIA

TELEGRAPH AND RADIO DECISIONS

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NANKING, August 14. CHINESE reports state that the Chinese Government have tentatively decided on three principles concerning the telegraph and radio situation in Manchuria; firstly, the suspension of telegraph and radio traffic between stations in China and Manchuria; secondly, that Manchukuo's circular telegrams will not be forwarded in China; thirdly, the Chinese Foreign Office is officially informing the American and British Governments that Manchukuo has not been authorised to take over the rights provided for in agreements signed between China and other Powers previous to the Japanese occupation of Manchuria. The Chinese Government further states that prior to the restoration to China of Manchuria, all traffic agreements are temporarily cancelled.

The above suggestions must receive the approval of the Executive Yuan before being enforced.

CONVERSION PLAN SUCCESS

MODEL FOR OTHER COUNTRIES

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, August 12. A TREASURY announcement as to the progress which War Loan conversion operation achieved up to the end of the bonus month is expected early next week.

Much progress has now been made with the great volume of mail received in the last few days of July and for some days afterwards. The delayed post, consisting mainly of letters from holders abroad, was unexpectedly large.

There are indications that before July 31st £1,700,000,000 of five per cent. war stock was converted to 3½% stock and that the final approximate amount will show a considerably higher figure. The total amount of War Loan outstanding was £2,073,000,000.

City circles do not doubt that the Treasury will be able to announce a very great success, and anticipate that, apart from the benefits it will confer on the home financial situation, the operations will serve as a model to other countries with conversion schemes in prospect.

TERRIFIC HEAT AT HANKOW

14 SOLDIERS DROP DEAD AFTER PARADE.

Hankow, August 7.—Hankow, which has been suffering from a heat wave during the week, experienced intolerable weather yesterday when the thermometer yester-day to 108 degrees Fahr.

Many cases of prostration due to the heat occurred with fatal results. Fourteen soldiers, including a regimental commander, of the 44th Division under General Hsiao Chi Chu, fell dead after standing under the sun for inspection by General Ho Cheng Chun, Director of the Hankow Pacification Headquarters.

Drought has done much damage to crops and other agricultural products in central Hupch areas. Urgent messages for relief are being received from Kiangnan, Tienmen, Chungsiang, and other districts.

CHINESE OFFICIAL TO BE IMPEACHED.

ALLEGED SECRET SALE OF WAR MATERIAL TO JAPAN.

NANKING, August 6.—The Control Yuan has instituted impeachment proceedings against Mr. Tan Chang K'ai, Provincial Commissioner of Reconstruction of Hunan province, for alleged secret sale of land and munition to Japan for use as material in the manufacture of ammunition.

The petition of impeachment, which was originally brought up by member Lo Chia Fu, points out that since the Japanese invasion of Manchuria last September, the entire nation has severed economic relations with the Japanese. Government official should naturally set an example in this matter, and the sale of raw materials which may be used for the manufacture of arms and ammunition must be especially guarded against.

Continuing, the petition alleges that as a result of investigations by Mr. Hsiao I, a special deputy of the Ministry of Industry, the Hunan official is found to have illicitly exported and sold to Japan quantities of lead and antimony during the period between September 18 and the end of December last year. Irrefutable evidence is also said to have been supplied by the Changsha Customs authorities and certain exports firms in Hankow.

MRS. BARNEY TO BLAME

IMPRUDENCE CAUSED MOTOR MISHAP

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NICE, August 13. MRS. E. BARNEY, recently acquitted on a charge of murdering her lover, and soon afterwards involved in a motor mishap on the Continent, is apparently not yet out of the wood.

It is officially announced in the report of the examining magistrate at Grasse, that he finds Mrs. Barney "guilty by imprudence and non-observance of the rules of the road," which is an offence under the Penal Code.

It is altogether likely that Mrs. Barney, who was held for questioning and then released, will once again be called to account in the present case.

It is not expected that Mrs. Barney's case will be heard for one or two months.

The usual penalties for such an offence are a fine and damages. The maximum penalty of imprisonment is seldom imposed.

Y.M.C.A. WORKER MURDERED.

ROBBERY BELIEVED TO BE THE MOTIVE.

BODY FOUND IN THE WHANGPOO.

Believed to have been the victim of a dastardly crime, Mr. Wilson Y. Y. Kung, comptroller of the National Committee of Y.M.C.A.s in China, was found in the Whangpoo, near the Pootung Point, at noon last Saturday, by members of the Customs River Police. The Chinese authorities were promptly notified and an inquest was held by a Procurator of the Shanghai District Court yesterday morning when it was revealed that the corpse bore a severe knife wound in the left side of the neck. As the deceased gentleman was not known to have any enemies, and as there was no reason to think that he took his own life, the general belief is that robbery was the motive and that Mr. Kung was first robbed and then attacked, after which his body was thrown into the river.

Mr. Kung left his house at about 8 p.m. on Thursday last after dinner. He informed his family that he was going out for his usual stroll and that he proposed to look for a friend. He was last seen alive in Luna Park at about 10 p.m. by two colleagues with whom he chatted for a short while and whom he told he was trying to find a friend. As he did not return home by the following morning and as no word was received as to his whereabouts, the various police stations, Settlement and Chinese, were immediately notified.

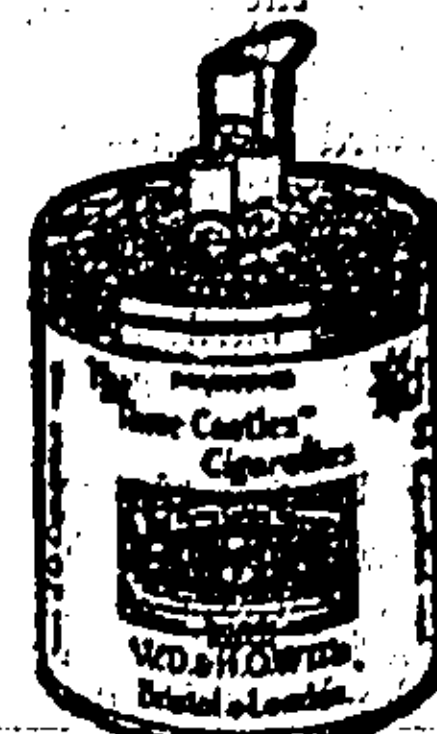

At about 2 p.m. on Saturday, a message was received from the Greater Shanghai Bureau of Public Safety to the effect that the river police had discovered, in the Whangpoo, a body which corresponded to the description given of Mr. Kung. The body was identified by members of the family and the Shanghai District Court was notified, the Procurator holding an in-

N.S.W. RELIEF WORKS.

EMPLOYMENT FOR 30,000 MEN.

Sydney, July 10.—Mr. Stevens, the Premier, last night outlined the N.S.W. Government's plans for the expenditure of £2,000,000 in the ensuing 12 months as part of the three-years programme of unemployment relief works decided on by the recent Premier's Conference. He expected that 30,000 or 40,000 men would be absorbed in this first instalment of the programme in N.S.W. The country, however, must look to private industry for the ultimate re-employment of the people; the Government could only create favourable conditions and refrain from hindering or harassing private enterprise.
The Government, he continued, endorsed the principle of motherhood endowment, but the system whereby the employer paid more tax the more men he employed, irrespective of his profits, was wrong and would be remedied in time. He spoke of the great handicap suffered by the farmer through the fall in prices, in spite of the help of the exchange rate. But there was still a wide gap to be bridged between cost and price and, though there might be a certain rise of prices from a general world recovery, it would be folly to assume that that could bridge the gap.

STOCK EXCHANGE BOOM IN SYDNEY.

BUSINESS DONE ON UNUSUAL LY HEAVY SCALE.

Sydney, August 9.—Business on the Sydney Stock Exchange to-day was on an unusually heavy scale, owing to a renewed buying wave and it approached record dimensions.
Investors were apparently influenced by the activity in the New York markets and by the upward trend throughout the world in commodity prices.
All shares benefited from to-day's activity, particularly banks, which had been lagging recently.

BOROTRA'S ADVICE TO YOUTH.

WARNS AGAINST DANGER OF MAKING SPORT A FETISH.

Some interesting remarks were made by M. Jean Borotra, the famous French lawn tennis player, at the annual Press luncheon at Wimbledon recently.

M. Borotra, who was the guest of honour, referred to the necessity for lawn tennis players, especially young players, to maintain a sense of proportion on the subject of the part played by sport in life.

Subsequently, in a talk with a Morning Post representative at the Carlton Hotel, M. Borotra amplified his remarks.

"There is a danger in these modern times of the youth, who read of and see the champions of sports as idols, feeling that they should devote their life to attempting to equal or emulate them," he said.

England's Balance.

"This danger is, perhaps, not so apparent in England as elsewhere," he went on, "because you as a country have a well-balanced mind in connection with sport, and having practiced it for fifty years or more there is less danger of your making too much of it."

"But it would be a great pity if the youth of this country, as a result of what they read and hear, were to grow up with an idea that to become a champion is as desirable as to continue in study or business. I know well that a boy who excels in one sport or another may have difficulty in avoiding the demands that may be put upon him by his school, his college, and ultimately his country. But I do say emphatically that there are probably not more than, say, one in a thousand who should adopt this course."

"It should be possible for boys to know whether they are likely to be really successful in a particular sport. Then they have an excuse to go on with it. But if they are in doubt about their ability, or if they are uncertain whether they will be successful, my advice is to give it up, without wasting further time. Even if they decide to continue, they should find time to complete their studies."

"We in France do not give enough time to sport. Ten per cent., perhaps, play far more than they should. The remaining ninety per cent. do not play enough, because their work schedules are too full. I have seen little of your schools or colleges, but I should say that they maintain a happy medium."

Duty of Schools.

"But it is the duty of the schools and colleges to see that the boys are brought up to play sport in moderation; and it is the duty of the parents to teach their sons a right sense of value."

Speaking of the great school and University matches, such as Eton v. Harrow and Oxford v. Cambridge, at Lords, which are frequently criticised as giving youth an unbalanced outlook on sport, M. Borotra said: "The years in a boy's life, when he plays at Lords, contain the happiest memories of his life. He remembers them until he dies, and he should have the character and a strong enough mind to see them in the right perspective; and here again the schools and Universities should play a part."

Of team games, M. Borotra added: "I can well understand the attitude of the schools who play only team games, and I know that tennis is not played regularly at most of them. But tennis is a magnificent game, and although it may not make for the team spirit, it develops high initiative in the boys who play it."

M. Borotra has won about every lawn tennis honour during the last ten years, yet he has not let his tennis interfere with his business, and he has endeared himself to the crowds and players of all countries by his true sportsmanship.

POIGNANT ACTING AT THE QUEEN'S.

A trade notice states:—"The Champ," which brings Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper together as two stars in a single picture, is an amazing romance. The picture, now playing at the Queen's, is a poignant heart-interest drama, showing the hero of "The Secret Six" and the hero of "Skippy" as father and son. Beery plays a broken-down fight champion, pathetically striving for a "come-back" and his lost supremacy. Jackie is his son who, notwithstanding what anyone says, thinks he's the greatest man in the world.

And for the boy's future, the "has been" makes a sacrifice that transcends description.

Much of the picture was actually filmed below the Mexican border—this being the first time this has been possible.

Beery and Jackie rise to dramatic heights in the jail sequence and its heart-gripping sacrifice, and in the touching death scene in the fight arena. There is a sensational prize fight, a thrilling Caliente horse race and a dramatic episode in a gambling hall. Jackie and a "gang" of little Mexican boys provided laughs galore as do Roscoe Ates and Edward Brophy as the fight trainer and manager. Other talented players in the cast include Irene Rich, as the fighter's divorced wife, Hale Hamilton, Jesse Scott and Marcia Mae Jones.

"LIFE OF THE PARTY."

COMING ATTRACTION AT QUEEN'S.

A trade notice states:—"The Life of the Party," latest Warner Brothers and Vitaphone production in natural colour is announced as the coming attraction at the Queen's Theatre.

Winnie Lightner, that dynamo of energy, is once again seen in the type of rôle for which she is famous, that of a smart-cracking gold digger—this time in Havana.

Irene Delroy, Jack Witing, Charles Butterworth and Charles Judels, all Broadway favourites play prominent rôles.

Arthur Caesar, the Broadway wit-cracker, did the adaptation and dialogue.

"SHE WANTED A MILLIONAIRE."

BEAUTY QUEENS AT THE KING'S.

A trade notice states:—

Depicting the adventures of a factory girl in a small town, who avowed she would never marry any man unless he possessed at least a million dollars, and who kept her vow only to discover that wealth is a poor substitute for love and romance, "She Wanted a Millionaire," the Fox drama featuring Joan Bennett and Spencer Tracy in the leading rôle, is now attracting capacity crowds to the King's Theatre.

Miss Bennett portrays the part of the girl, who, without her knowledge, is entered for a local beauty contest by ambitious friends, which starts her on the way to gilded riches but tarnished love. Tracy appears as a young railway locomotive engineer, deeply in love with the girl, who refuses to listen to his pleadings and promises. James Kirkwood impersonates a rich and lustful rounder who satisfies Miss Bennett's desires for riches and shatters her ideals of romance.

The film is a clever interweaving of spectacle, pageantry, drama, and romance with a sparkling tinge of humour. In the scenes showing the national beauty contest at Atlantic City and the Quat's Arts Ball in Paris, eight winners of actual beauty contests are present among a galaxy of the most beautiful girls of Hollywood.

The picture also gives a good insight into what midday will wear during the coming spring and summer season. Miss Bennett makes twenty-two changes of costume during the film, among them the latest styled sun-tan swim suit, several ravishing evening gowns and afternoon frocks.

Una Merkel, delightful comedienne, who made the southern accent popular on the screen, and Dorothy Peterson, who played Will Rogers' wife in his last picture, "Business and Pleasure," are the other featured players with Donald Dillaway, Douglas Cosgrove and Lucille Laverne in important rôles.

"GOLDIE."

FUN AT THE ORIENTAL.

A trade notice states:—

The comedy team of Spencer Tracy and Warren Hymer is destined to become a national institution for the supply of wisecracks, judging from the prevalence of their witticisms heard from the lips of those who witnessed the opening of their latest Fox comedy, "Goldie" at the Oriental Theatre.

Their infectious humour was first introduced to a laugh-hungry world in "Up The River," satiric epic of two jail birds which took the country by storm. In "Goldie," they repeat their first triumph, only in this picture they have the added advantage of a much more pleasing setting.

This time they are two sailor pals. Tracy, as usual, is the quick-witted, fast talker of the two, while Hymer's only strength is contained in the bulging muscles of his arms and back.

Together they present as laughable a pair of comics as the screen has ever had. Roaming the globe in search of adventure and romance, they manage to uncover great quantities of both, and always to the accompaniment of boisterous fun which kept the Oriental Theatre audience in a constant state of near collapse from laughter during the showings yesterday.

Five more ports are visited by the "Nancy Ann," tramp steamer on which Tracy and Hymer make their tour. In each port they manage with their usual aptitude for such things to become embroiled (Continued at foot of next column.)

"THE CALENDAR."

NEXT CHANGE AT THE KING'S.

A trade notice states:—
Born in London in 1890, Mr. Marshall was educated at Harlow, and was formerly an artiled clerk to a firm of chartered accountants. His first stage appearance was in 1911 at the Opera House, Buxton, while his first appearance was at the Princes Theatre in 1913 "Brewster's Millions." Subsequently, he toured the United States and Canada with Cyril Maude.

Temporarily severing his association with the stage, he served in the Army until 1918. Since, with his wife, Miss Edna Best, he has been a frequent traveller to and fro across the Atlantic, and recently returned to England specifically to appear with Miss Best in the talking film versions of "The Calendar" which is coming to the King's Theatre on Thursday, and "Michael and Mary," on the conclusion of "Tomorrow and tomorrow," which was a 1931 Broadway sensation.

with the local constabulary, and the prettiest girls available.

In Calais the two cars meet up with pretty Jean Harlow, platinum blonde high diver with a carnival. The resultant conflict growing out of her attempt to destroy the friendship between the pals brings about the stirring climax of the picture.

"WINGS."

AIR EPIC AT THE CENTRAL.

A trade notice states:—

Director and author faced a handicap when they started plans for the production of "Wings," the Central Theatre feature, Paramount's famous story dedicated to the American war "aces."

"There is only one reason why airplane stuff usually fails to furnish the interest it is intended to give," William A. Wellman, director of the picture, said, "and that is that it has no background."

"With the cameras on the earth, the airplanes are usually so distant that the speed is lost on the screen. With the cameras in a balloon, or on a high tower, the range of activity is necessarily limited. With the cameras in another airplane, both must travel at the same speed to photograph close 'shots' and thus almost all sense of movement and speed is lost."

"We fixed electrically controlled cameras on the rims of the cockpits, pointing backward, right into the flyer's faces. We rehearsed the scenes on the ground and then we sent the boys up alone and, when the right altitude had been reached, the actor pressed a switch, the camera started grinding, and the actor played the scene himself, without direction."

FORGED SEAMEN'S ADVANCE NOTES.

SHIPPING COMPANIES ISSUE WARNING.

Many complaints have lately been made to Scotland Yard regarding the activities of men who are fraudulently obtaining money from traders and money exchangers by means of forged seamen's advance notes.

Seamen's advance notes, which in form are similar to cheques, are on sale at many stationers' shops, being obtainable stamped or unstamped, according to the wishes of the buyer. They are used by shipping companies, who pay out hundreds of them every month to officers and seamen who, having signed on for a voyage, may desire to get an advance. They are negotiable, as in the case of a cheque, once they have been endorsed, and, of course, are honoured by the shipping company, whoever presents them either to a bank, a money exchange, or a shipping office. It is stated that hundreds of forged seamen's notes have recently been circulated in London, and shipping companies are issuing a warning to the public to exercise the greatest care in cashing such notes. Reference to the company whose name appears on the note is an effective way of defeating the object of the men who are seeking to exploit a method of payment which is a great convenience to a deserving body of men.
